

Mary Jane Fortin

Executive Vice President and Chief Commercial Officer

Mary Jane Fortin is executive vice president and chief commercial officer of Thrivent.

In her role, she is responsible for growing the organization's core business of life insurance, health insurance and annuities, with an emphasis on transforming the go-to-market strategy for the organization.

Fortin leads a division that includes all commercial operations of Thrivent: distribution; product management; life, health and annuity product operations; and national community and membership engagement. Her focus is on delivering a great customer experience through multiple distribution channels and helping more people achieve financial clarity, enabling lives of meaning and gratitude.

Before joining Thrivent in 2020, Fortin was president of Allstate's Financial Businesses and led the company's life, annuity and benefits businesses. Her breadth and depth of experience spans more than three decades and includes leadership roles at several other financial services organizations including AIG, where she led American General, AIG's U.S. life insurance business; and The Hartford, where she was responsible for the company's mutual fund and 529 businesses. She began her career at Arthur Andersen, where she was a member of the financial services practice.

Fortin serves on the board of LL Global, Inc., the nonprofit parent company for LIMRA and LOMA. She holds a bachelor's degree in accounting from the University of Connecticut and a Master of Business Administration from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. She also is a CPA.

She and her family live in the Houston area.

A Fortune 500 organization, Thrivent had $152 billion in assets under management and advisement as of Dec. 31, 2019. In 2020, Thrivent was named one of the World's Most Ethical Companies by Ethisphere Institute for the ninth year in a row.
