Your protection has guarantees

As long as you pay your premiums and keep your contract in force:

- The face amount for your whole life insurance portion will never decrease or end.

- Your cash value is guaranteed to grow—and it's easily accessible through a contract loan, so you can use it when you need it.²

¹Under current tax law [IRC Sec. 101(a)(1)], death proceeds are generally excludable from the beneficiary's gross income. However, death proceeds may be subject to state and federal estate and/or inheritance tax.

²The primary purpose of life insurance is the death benefit protection. Loans and withdrawals will decrease your death benefit and the cash value available to pay insurance costs. Loans and/or withdrawals may cause a contract to lapse or terminate without value. Surrenders may generate an income tax liability and may be subject to a surrender charge. A significant taxable event can occur if a contract lapses with an outstanding loan. Contact your tax advisor for further details. Dividends may be affected by loans. Loan interest is charged in arrears at an annual rate of 8%.

Build your value

Pay more in premiums— expect more

You deserve a retirement strategy that you feel confident about—Thrivent gives you options. The Additional Premium Option¹ lets you enhance your coverage and increase your cash value even more by paying extra premiums. If you choose to take advantage of this option (and meet any underwriting requirements), Thrivent will add paid-up additions to your contract that:

- Replace your term insurance portion with permanent protection more quickly.
- Provide the opportunity to increase the guaranteed cash value of your contract.
- Have the potential to earn dividends.

¹Evidence of insurability may be required. A premium charge will be deducted from each additional premium before calculating the amount of additional paid-up life insurance coverage. See your contract for details. Large additional premiums may cause your contract to become a modified endowment contract (MEC). If this occurs, Thrivent will notify you and provide further details.

Your benefits add up

The value of dividends

Live generously with the benefits of your Thrivent Survivor Whole Life Insurance contract. With this type of contract, you're eligible to earn dividends.¹ While never guaranteed, Thrivent has a long history of consistently paying dividends to qualified contract owners.

These dividends can be used to:

- Purchase paid-up additional coverage.
- Pay premiums or reduce your debt.
- Help increase more cash value.

Income-tax advantages

You can start planning for your future today by investing in Thrivent Survivor Whole Life Insurance. Like similar permanent life insurance, this type of contract offers these income-tax advantages:

- A death benefit that is generally income tax-free to beneficiaries.²
- Cash value that can grow income tax-deferred, minimizing potential erosion from taxes.²
- Loans and surrenders from a non-modified endowment contract that are generally not taxable.³

¹Dividends can be used to pay premiums, purchase additional coverage, reduce debt or provide you with funds now or in the future. While several dividend options are available, it is recommended that the dividend option selected purchase annual survivor term insurance to keep the contract working as designed. In addition, an outstanding loan can affect the amount of any dividend. Dividends are not guaranteed.

²The federal income tax treatment of life insurance is unclear in certain circumstances. A qualified tax advisor should always be consulted with regard to the application of law to individual circumstances. Thrivent does not make any guarantee regarding tax treatment (federal, state or local) of any contract or of any transaction involving a contract, particularly after insured age 100. Life insurance proceeds may be subject to federal and/or state estate and/or inheritance taxes.

³With surrenders of a non-modified endowment contract, you generally will not have a taxable event until the cash value received exceeds the total amount of premiums paid. Loans and surrenders from a modified endowment contract are taxable to the extent there is gain in the contract. All loans and surrenders will decrease the death proceeds and the cash surrender value. Loans and surrenders may cause a contract to lapse or terminate without value. Surrenders may generate an income tax liability. A significant taxable event can occur if a contract terminates with outstanding debt.
